

Testimonial – Warren Macdonald

Medicine Hat College (MHC) annually hosts a “kick off the academic year” day for all employees, called College Day. It is a day to visit with colleagues, meet new colleagues, hear about the happenings around the college, look where the college is going, and listen to a motivational keynote address.

The keynote speaker is one of the highlights and the success of the day is directly tied to the presentation. This year, Warren Macdonald shared his amazing story with us and met the college’s goal of setting an inspiring, motivating tone to begin the new academic year. Some of the employee’s comments included, best keynote ever, beyond excellent, inspiring and thought provoking.

Additionally, this upcoming year the college will be developing a new Strategic Plan and Warren nicely linked his idea of, “When you change the way you see the world, you change the world” as a thought provoking comment for others to think about when participating in the strategic planning process.

Thank you Warren, for contributing to the success of MHC’s College Day 2009.

Regards,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Roxanne Plante", followed by a period.

Roxanne Plante, MBA
Director, Human Resources
Medicine Hat College